

EAR WAX REMOVAL

Ear wax removal using micro suction techniques is a safe and effective method for clearing excess ear wax, or cerumen, from the ear canal. This procedure employs a gentle vacuum device to carefully remove wax buildup without the need for invasive instruments.

Excess ear wax can accumulate due to various factors, including the natural process of ear wax production, use of earplugs or hearing aids, and improper cleaning methods such as cotton swabs, which can push wax deeper into the ear. This buildup can lead to discomfort, hearing loss, and even infections if not properly managed.

The benefits of micro suction ear wax removal are numerous. It provides immediate relief from blockage and discomfort, helps maintain ear health by preventing infections, and is a quick, painless procedure. Additionally, micro suction reduces the risk of damage to the ear canal and eardrum, making it a preferred choice. Regular ear care and timely removal of excess wax can enhance overall auditory health and well-being.

Microneedling and Meso Therapy

Microneedling, also known as collagen induction therapy, is a minimally invasive cosmetic procedure that involves the use of fine needles to create micro-injuries in the skin. This process stimulates the body's natural healing response, promoting collagen and elastin production. The benefits of microneedling are numerous; it can improve skin texture, reduce the appearance of scars and fine lines, enhance overall skin tone, and increase the effectiveness of topical treatments. Additionally, this procedure is suitable for various skin types and has minimal downtime, making it an increasingly popular choice for those seeking rejuvenated and healthier-looking skin.

Mesotherapy is a cosmetic treatment that involves injecting a mixture of vitamins, enzymes and plant extracts into the mesoderm, the middle layer of skin. This technique is primarily used for aesthetic purposes, including reducing localized fat deposits, improving skin tone and texture, and treating conditions like cellulite and hair loss. By delivering nutrients directly to the targeted areas, mesotherapy aims to rejuvenate and enhance the skin's appearance. The procedure is typically performed in multiple sessions, and while results can vary, many patients report improved skin elasticity and a more youthful look.

We use a specialist range of medical grade Italian products that deliver great results. Some of our most popular treatments include microneedling skin lifting, toning and tightening and pigmentation solutions.

Following a full consultation we will work with you to develop a treatment plan that will target your skin concerns and give you back your glow.
